COLONIAL THEATRE. Woman and Wine, Five Acts, Most

Spectacular Film Ever Offered. Not since the mammoth success of the Colonial theatre entitled The Last Days of Pompell has there been shown in this city a film on the par with or yet rivaling the one big masterpiece of tares, and the management of the Auditorium wanted to get a show that ditorium wanted to get a show that would be bound to please. There will be the usual three shows daily and a pense has been spared to make this one of the most beautiful motion pictures of the day. Extreme extravatance is outdone in this wonderful film and the scenes of oriental splendor and the scenes of oriental splendor and management of the Auditorium wanted to get a show that would be bound to please. There will be the usual three shows daily and a few seats will be reserved at the afternoon performance today, which will start at 2.30 sharp. A full carload of special scenery, electrical effects, wardrobe, etc., is carried by this big and the scenes of oriental splendor and modern magnificence cannot be squalled. The story deals with the fall of a man through the sinister influence of a woman, yet no story more rripping or with a stronger moral has ever been filmed. William Elliot is the eading man and this is the same sucfrome to the doors for weeks recent-y. The settings are beyond descrip-tion in their superlative beauty and

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

The management of the Auditorium The management of the Auditorium has booked for this week a gala holiday offering in The Big Review, a big musical comedy with Harry Le Van and a company of 25 people, including a big beauty chorus. "An avalanche of fun' is what the critics say of this show, and with Mr. Le Van in the cast it could hardly be otherwise. There is a beautiful set of scenery carried for the show the first three days of the week, and many beautiful costumes are worn by the chorus. The Big Re-view was secured especially for this week on account of the holiday, when large crowds always patronize the the tares, and the management of the Au-company.

On the picture programme for Monday and Tuesday will be The Blood of His Brother, a two-reel Bison mining denicting a desperate battle between cowboys, miners and Indians when a train traveling 80 miles an hour runs down the Indians. Marie Walcamp and Wellington Playter play the leading roles. Mary Fuller and Matt Moore will be seen in a corking good comedy reel entitled The Rustle of a pon in their superlative beauty and trandeur, while every scene is a pholographic work of art. All of the tricks of the motion picture photographer are brought into play in the way of visions, fade-aways and many others provide captivating results in the way if entrancing scenes that scintillate all by himself.—Philadelphia Ledger. ### NORWICH TOWN

Comrade O. M. Price Addresses School Pupils-Boy Scouts to Carry Flowers to Soldiers' Monument-Candidates Immersed Near Quarter

As Thursday, May 27, was the an-niversary of the seige of Port Hudson, O. M. Price took that as the basis of O. M. Price took that as the basis of his talk to the pupils of the Town Street schools Friday afternoon. A vivid description of a real battle was given, Mr. Price told how he was struck by a ball, the inner hat band was torn but it broke the force and made only a surface wound. Sergeant Torrance, one of the bravest of soldiers, lost his life here. Comrades who stand by are dearer than brothers. This G. A. R, button stands he said for those who have suffered the privation and hardship of war.

Gen. Banks called for 1000 volunteers Gen. Banks called for 1000 volunteers to storm Port Hudson. As Col. H. W. Birge was selected as leader, more men from the 13th Conn. volunteered than from any other regiment in the brigade. We were set aside in a camp at the right of the line of battle. From June 14, to July 4, we kept on the alert for orders to advance, which never came, for Vicksburg surrendered and this caused Port Hud-son to surrender July 8. The next day we marched in; there wasn't enough food for one man in the whole place. The Confederates were drawn up in ines at a little distance and the com lines at a little distance and the command given to them to ground arms. That was the last act in that drama. We took boats down the river and were glad to go elsewhere.

We lost noble men, others lived to come home, You may remember hearing of Marvin Wait, Gen, Harland you have seen others were George Who.

In both schools there were patriotic songs and recitations. Close attention was paid to the realistic talk.

East Town Street Cemetery Improvements.

The old cemetery on East Town street extending through to Town street is being put in order. Many lots have been looked after, a willow and a large elm tree cut down and removed, and special repairs made on the Gov. Samuel Huntington tomb.

Suspicious Dog Shot. On Wednesday as Frank W. Barber of Plain Hill was in his barn a strange or riam hill was in his oarn a strange dog ran in and jumped for the horses' mouth but was whipped off. It was a large white setter with brown spots on shoulder and head. Friday the same dog appeared in Mr. Barber's pig pen and was seen carrying a young pig by the neck. The other pigs got away from the dog. Next he went for the cows but was driven off. Then Mr. Barber got his rifle, the log meanwhile starting for the piazza where there were ladies sitting. He was driven off and shot. His head was sent to Dr. N. B. # The Plainest Girl

Can Be Good-Looking

There is economy in good looks. It pays every girl to be good-looking and every woman owes it to herself to be as attractive as posible.

It is unfortunate that all women are not born beautiful, but nearly all can acquire good looks. The plain girl not only must use care in the selection of her clothes, but give especial attention to her hair—thin, wispy, dull and faded locks will destroy half the beauty of even a pretty face.

MESSAGE FROM HOME,

With travel-stained feet
Stands the lonesome youth
One hour long
In the library booth,
Bending, homesick,
All the while
Over a blessed
Newspaper file.
Homely old paper,
Looks to me;
Banal and trite,
It seems to be;
But watch his eyes scan it,
Up and down,
Blessed old paper
From the blessed home town

Type is shabby.

The ink is peor,
Has a colored supplement
For a lure;
Gives advice to girls
And hints on dress,
Steers new married couples
To happiness;
Yet in the trite sheet
A vista lies
Of the Somewhere Else
To those homesick eyes
Of the Somewhere Else
With its memories sweet
To the lonesome youth
With the travel-stained feet.

H. S. Haskins, in New York Su

"God bless you," so I've wished you all Of brightness life possesses; For can there any joy at all Be thine, unless God blesses?

And so not "all thy days be fair,"
And shadows touch thee never."
But this alone—God bless thee, dear;
So thou art safe forever.
